

A DREAM YOU DREAM ALONE IS ONLY A DREAM. A DREAM YOU DREAM TOGETHER IS REALITY. LET'S DO A HEADCOUNT

In the last weeks of reflection we created a platform to allow dialogue between workers of the hospitality field.

Our aim is to start an inclusive movement sustained by all those people who operate in the hospitality industry in Venice and have to give out their income to the main intermediate companies (such as Booking.com and Expedia).

In order to resettle the trading conditions with these agencies – and give the local businesses their dignity and autonomy back –, we took action through a temporary shutdown of room availability on their websites. We hope this will also develop into a new touristic approach for the city.

Commissions flow monthly in the bank accounts of the hospitality multinational corporations. By cutting them, we hope it would be possible to employ the resulting savings into concrete actions and projects for the city: a big opportunity to get closer to the citizens and all the other Venetian stakeholders. Together, we could send out a positive message about a new Venice, eager to welcome back the world even better than before.
